

WHAT STEPS CAN I TAKE?

If you are in a state of emergency, call 911 immediately.

Preserve Evidence: You do not have to decide on a course of action right away, but consider preserving any evidence that may be relevant if you choose to pursue charges later. This could include letters, photos, emails, messages, clothing, bedding, and other items.

Seek Medical Care: Getting medical attention is crucial, even if you do not have visible injuries. Medical professionals can provide necessary care and document any injuries.

Contact Local Authorities:

- Local Police and/or the College of Coastal Georgia Police: Contact police for assistance and safety.

Title IX Coordinator: Help you report the incident at the institutional level and with local authorities.

COASTAL CARES

If you or someone you know has been a victim of gender-based violence, it's important to remember that you are not alone. This brochure provides valuable information to help you navigate your experiences. Whatever you have gone through and however you are feeling now, your safety is the top priority. You do not have to face this alone, and the resources here are designed to support you through this process.

When you report an incident, the College of Coastal Georgia will provide you with comprehensive written information about all available options. This includes guidance on obtaining supportive measures and pursuing formal disciplinary or criminal investigations. You will also receive details on available counseling, health services, mental health support, advocacy, and other essential services.
